

The DCI Special Members of the National Military Information Disclosure Policy Committee (NDPC) continued to participate actively in the work of the Committee. The policy manual (NDP-1), "National Policy and Procedures for the Disclosure of Classified Military Information to Foreign Governments and International Organizations" was completely revised, and provided for the transfer of the Chairmanship of the Committee from the Department of State to the Department of Defense. The revision which became effective 1 January 1970 streamlined the Committee's operations and clarified a number of areas that ^{had} caused confusion in the past.
